"A BREATH OF THE CAROLINA LOW COUNTRY" . . . . . Mr. Reeves

Announcements

Alma Mater

We sing the praise of her we love:
We lift on high her name in song,
White as the gleaming stars above,
Columbia, Mother, great and strong.
She who has been, shall ever be,
Wise, good and true eternally,
No stain shall touch the purity
Of our Columbia College.

Her virtues we acclaim today
That all men might this of her deem
Her mission is to light the way
With learning's clearest, sweetest gleam.
Her gentle heart has made her great;
Her breath is love, she knows not hate;
Her faith that God controls her fate,
Makes brave our own Columbia.

And here we pledge our love to thee
No matter what the years may bring,
Or what in life our lots shall be,
Columbia, we thy glory sing.
We love thee for thy zealous care,
For lofty aims to thee so dear,
Our hearts shall ever breathe this prayer,
"God keep our own Columbia."

Harold S. ("Dick") Reeves

Long a Student of the Negro patois known as Gullah, Harold S. ("Dick") Reeves has gained a wide reputation as a raconteur in this picturesque dialect.

Speaking in his cultured Charleston brogue, Mr. Reeves makes a distinct appeal to students of English, lovers of music, dialect enthusiasts, and those who simply like a good story. In his inimitable way Mr. Reeves recites numerous stories to be heard nowhere else.

His discourse presents what is known of the origin of this Negro dialect spoken only on the coast of South Carolina and Georgia, numerous charming stories and anecdotes told in this dialect, and indirectly an amazing insight into the humor and pathos of the black folk who speak it, or who used to speak it for the dialect is a dying one.

From America's Most Historic City, Charleston, South Carolina, comes this native Charlestonian, with a talk as unusual as it is entertaining.
